

Nothing New Under the Sun

We cannot become the purveyors and supporters of the instrumentalities of man over those of God, no matter what your interpretation of 'God' means. Whether to you, 'God' is a long-bearded all-powerful being sitting on a throne with Jesus at his side as the paintings of old envision; or 'God' is a Being itself and all the mysteries entailed therein.

We recognize that all men have the spark of divinity and cannot be considered chattel or 'useless eaters' to be directed, controlled, and even owned by those who believe themselves better than them. Man has a right to breathe free in this world to which he is involuntarily born and to not be presumed to be a nameless, faceless, lesser making up a rabble to be trampled underfoot by some superior class or caste.

Governments that believe it is their right to make a man a mere number, or cattle, they, as superiors, have a right to herd, are tyrannical. They have no right to exist and certainly no justification for our support. Certainly, history teaches us, and the 20th Century demonstrated the point with genocidal authority.

Yet here we are in the 21st Century listening to people brag about the extent to which they already have the technical means to make total surveillance a reality and to manage even the smallest detail of how 'we the people' will be allowed to live our lives. These people are not embarrassed by their lurch toward genocidal arrogance; indeed, they are proud of it.

What is the difference between a numerical tattoo on your arm and a digital social credit score? A Star-of-David sowed to your outer garment or instant identification via facial recognition software? Kristallnacht or your business destroyed by other means for not toeing the government, LGBT, transgender, abortion, or pronoun-driven line? I see none.

No matter the time in history, it is all about embracing the government-approved narrative without question, complaint, or objection. It is all about keeping the man on the street in line and at the service of the elites.

There is nothing new under the sun.
