

Kathleen Marquardt, now the Vice President of American Policy Center, began her political activism as the founder of Putting People First. In those early days, as she exposed the dangers of the Wildlands Project and the radical animal rights movement, she suffered attacks and death threats from the animal rights kooks.

Today she helps motivate activists at the local level as she exposes Cancel Culture, Agenda21 and its progeny like the Green New Deal and the Great Reset that threaten the very roots of our culture.

Throughout her very effective career, Kathleen has been featured in national publications, including Fortune, People, the Washington Post, and Field and Stream, as well as television news programs such as Hard Copy, The McLaughlin Group, Geraldo, and many others. Her articles appear around the world. Her words and actions have been noted in professional journals, and she has debated animal rights at numerous universities and challenged (and won) against their proposed legislation in State houses across the country. She received a standing ovation when she spoke at CPAC about the situation in Northwestern U.S.

Her best-selling book, Animal Scam: the Beastly Abuse of Human Rights has been sold around the world. It was used as a textbook in a number of universities. And her Cancel Culture articles were compiled into a book and sold in Germany.

She is determined to motivate local Americans to organize and stand up to preserve the Republic of our Founders. Like Tom, she's eaten, slept, and lived through the attacks by the One-World Illuminati for decades. Her quiver is still full, and she's ready for the next battle or speech.
